PITTSBURG, PA.—The Daily Republican of this city, one of the leading German papers of the United States, publishes the following editorial from the pen of its editor, Mr. G. A. Hellman:

"St Jacobs Oll cures Rheumatism; of this I am convinced. For two years I have suffered with Rheumatism in my left shoulder and right arm, and last fall I was incapable of attending to my duties, and lay many a night unable to sleep, on account of the terrible pains. A few weeks ago a severe attack of this trouble struck me, and this time I concluded to try St. Jacobs Oil.—I must acknowledge with but little confidence in its merits, I freely confess that the result has completely astonished me. The first application relieved the pain very materially, and the continued use of only two bottles has completely cured me of this chronic evil, and that after the most eminent physicians and their prescribions had been of no avail. I therefore sonsider it a duty to publish the above for the benefit of all sufferers with Rheumatism and kindred complain's."

CANTON, O.—The Hon. Huso Preyer, National candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, gives the following to the public:

"St. Jacobs Oil cured me of Rheumatism, and I can recommend it."

For allments like the above, and for bodily pains and accidents constantly occurring in every household, the great German remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, is incomparably superior to any medicine in the market. It is enthusiastically indorsed by all who try it; costs but iffly cents a bottle; is sold by druggists, and directions in eleven (11) different languages accompany it.
